

February 8, 1933

Mr. Morton:

Mr. Godshalk says to tell you that they had dug about 100 trees, some of the largest, just before the storm of yesterday. That they could not do anything with them yesterday, but today are moving and planting and all will probably be taken care of by tomorrow night.

N A Bryan